Section IV - Notice to judgment debtor (person who must pay money)

Because a judgment entered against you, the attached execution has been issued against wages earned by you from the employer named above. Beginning twenty (20) days from the Date of Service of Wage Execution on Employer indicated above, the employer will remove from your weekly earnings an amount of money which leaves you with (a) seventy-five percent (75%) of your disposable earnings OR (b) forty (40) times the higher of the minimum hourly wage set by federal law or state law; whichever is the larger amount. On page 2 of this form are the sections of the Connecticut General Statutes which your employer must follow to figure out (calculate) the weekly amount that may be taken out of your wages to agree with the wage execution. If you think that your employer has not calculated the weekly amount correctly, you should tell your employer.

Your earnings may be exempt from execution (do not have to be taken) — Any wages earned by a person who gets public assistance under an incentive earnings or similar program are exempt from (may not be taken from you by an) execution. (Section 52-352b(d) of the Connecticut General Statutes).

How to claim an exemption allowed by law — If you want to claim that your earnings are exempt by law from execution you must fill out and sign the Claim of Exemption on page 2 of this form and return this exemption and modification claim form to the Superior Court at the above address.

When the clerk of the Superior Court gets this form, the clerk will notify you and the judgment creditor of the date on which the court will have a hearing to figure out the issues raised by your claim. If this form is received by the court no later than twenty (20) days from the Date of Service of Wage Execution on Employer indicated above, the employer will not begin withholding (removing) your earnings from your wages until after your claim is figured out by the court. A claim may also be filed after the twenty (20) day period. No earnings claimed to be exempt may be withheld from any employee until the claim has been figured out.

Modification of execution — If you have reasonable cause to believe that you have a right to a modification (change) of the wage execution and you want to ask for a modification (to have less money taken from your wages), you must fill out the Claim for Modification on page 2 of this form and return this exemption and modification claim form to the Superior Court at the address listed above.

When the clerk of Superior Court gets this form the clerk will tell you and the judgment creditor the date on which the court will have a hearing court to figure out the issues raised by your claim. If this form is received by the court no later than twenty (20) days from the Date of Service of Wage Execution on Employer indicated above, the employer will not begin withholding your earnings until after your claim is figured out by the court. A claim may also be filed after the twenty (20) day period. No earnings subject to a claim for modification may be withheld from any employee until the claim has been figured out.

Setting aside judgment — If the judgment was made against you because you did not come to court, you may, within four (4) months of the date the court made its judgment and upon belief that you have reasonable cause, ask the court to set aside the judgment entered against you and the case will begin again.

General statutes

1. The following is the part of section 52-361a(f) of the Connecticut General Statutes which says what part of your wages can be removed by the employer and given to the judgment creditor.

"The maximum part of the aggregate weekly earnings of an individual which may be subject under this section to levy or other withholding for payment of a judgment is the lesser of (1) twenty-five (25) percent of his disposable earnings for that week, or (2) the amount by which his disposable earnings for that week exceed forty (40) times the higher of (A) the minimum hourly wage prescribed by section 6(a)(1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, 29 U.S.C. section 206(a)(1), or (B) the full minimum fair wage established by subsection (j) of section 31-58, in effect at the time the earnings are payable."

2. The following is the part of section 52-350a(4) of the Connecticut General Statutes which defines disposable earnings and which defines what parts of your wages which can not be included in your total earnings when figuring out (calculating) the weekly amount which is subject to execution.

"Disposable earnings' means that part of the earnings of an individual remaining after the deduction from those earnings of amounts required to be withheld for payment of federal income and employment taxes, normal retirement contributions, union dues and initiation fees, group life insurance premiums, health insurance premiums and federal tax levies."
